V. Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Statement

Novelty (N)	Claims	1 - 4	YES
	Claims		NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims	1 - 4	YES
	Claims		NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims	1 - 4	YES
	Claims		NO

2. Citations and explanations

Reference is made to the following documents:

D1: EP-A-734717

D2: US-A-5637296

1. The subject matter of the present claims 1 to 4 can be considered novel over the prior art in D1 and D2.

D1 discloses hair fixative agents which are less tacky and contain a mixture of a vinyl caprolactam polymer (polymer A) and either a (meth)acrylamide / (meth)acrylic acid ester / (meth)acrylic acid terpolymer (polymer B) or a vinylpyrrolidone polymer (polymer C).

Reference is made to the following passages in D1: claims 1 to 3; page 2, line 58; page 3, lines 34 to 38; examples 5, 8, 12.

D2 discloses hair fixative agents containing polymers A and C (see D2: the claims and the examples).

2. D1 is regarded as the closest prior art, since it also discloses hair fixative agents which are less tacky.

The subject matter of claim 1 (polymers A + B + C) differs from the disclosure of D1 (example 5: A + C; examples 8 and 12: A + B) in that the claimed hair fixative compositions also contain a polymer B (or polymer C).

It is credible that the additional use of a further known hair fixative substance results in the hair fixative preparation being less tacky.

The technical problem of interest can therefore be considered that of developing hair fixative agents based on mixtures of polymers A and B, or polymers A and C and which are less tacky.

The available prior art does not indicate that hair fixative agents (A and B or A and C) that are less tacky can be produced by adding a further hair fixative substance.

Inventive step can thus be acknowledged.
